CAREER PLANET Update...

APRIL / MAY 2009

In April we said a very sad farewell to our amazing intern, Jessica Freund, who went back home to the US to graduate with an International Business degree. The good news, though, is that Jessica will still be part of the Career Planet team – doing research and working as a foreign correspondent from the United States!

In May we welcomed our newest intern, Adriane MacDonald from Canada, to our team. Adriane is a 5th year Bachelor of Management student with honours in Human Resources, and brings a wealth of experience with her.

From fish ... to fruit preserves!

As part of our ongoing program to re-skill retrenched women fish packers from Hout Bay, Career Planet facilitated the second part of our “sustainable self-employment” workshops series. In April and May the ladies learned the art of craft-making using recycled materials to create products that they will market and sell.

Next up was a workshop in jam making! The famous Silwood Kitchen School of Cookery in Rondebosch, kindly gave us the use of their fully-equipped training kitchen for this project. The ingredients were generously sponsored by the Pick 'n Pay Foundation.

Celebrity Chef, Justine Drake sent food editor, Anke Roux and assistant Pia, to teach the art of jam-making and preserving. Within a few hours the ‘Hout Bay Ladies’ had mastered the art of making and bottling their own delicious homemade strawberry jam and orange marmalade. Anke also gave them tips on how to produce jams cost-effectively.

This project is made possible through the combined effort, generosity and talent of everyone involved. Special thanks to Oceana.
